Don't Repot That Plant!

And Other Indoor Plant Care Mistakes
by Will Creed

Conventional wisdom isn't always correct. Whether you have pests to remove, leaning canes, yellowing leaves, rotting roots — Will helps you deal with the issue. Included in the how-tos are: lighting, feeding, watering, repotting (rarely, if ever!), dealing with pests, propagating, root problems, pruning, and so much more. In addition, 42 of the most popular indoor plants care instructions are included with full color photos. What he has learned as an interior landscape professional is not generally available to the lay person. It is to you now.

THE STORY BEHIND THE STORY

Will has spent 35 years caring for indoor plants, and answering thousands of questions from anxious houseplant owners. As a member of the National Gardening Association, he regularly answers member questions as well as those emailed to him from his website www.HorticulturalHelp.com. After writing over 50 of his unique Indoor Plant-care Bulletins over the years, he decided to write a book about the most common house plants that people have the most difficulty with.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Will Creed has worked professionally caring for plants in the real world of homes and offices in New York City for over 35 years. He knows what works and what doesn't, based on hard experience. He realized how much common misunderstanding persists regarding indoor plant care.
